If you are a politician or interested in the least in politics, go to the Bijou theater and laugh your sides off. Incidentally, you need not have the slightest knowledge of politics to enjoy the play as much as would the man who has figured out just how he is going to be sent to congress, or who boasts for his political friend from the curbstone. The Juvenile Bostonians last night opened a three-night engagement of "Running For Office," a political hodge-podge that is a scream.

The little actors do not resort to personalities, but let go their hits in such manner that they explode like bombshells. The plot is woven around German and Irish rivals for a seat in congress. These characters are taken by Patsy Henry and Dodie Canfield and the two sterling little comedians have not done better work since the opening of the present engagement.

Little Halcyon Clark, as a burlesque queen, who controls both the candidates by the wiggle of her finger, repeatedly brought down the house in her singing of "My Hero," and was encored half a dozen times.

The play centers almost entirely about these three characters, but a magnificent setting of a tropical garden, with a garden-dance arranged for the same date as that on which the two rival candidates had made arrangements to deliver addresses gives plenty of opportunity for frolic, fun, pretty dances and happy songs.

Thom Hellen and Ina Mitchell scored several times with pretty duets; Patsy Henry scored heavily with her rendition of "Can't Be Done;" Ina Mitchell was encored several times for her "Manana Man," while Lottie Clark, Billie O'Neill, Alice O'Neill, Bee Myling, Stubby Myling all appeared to splendid advantage in their song renditions.

The biggest spectacular feature of the performance was the Cohen March, in which the entire company performed an intricate parade on the stage and then through the audience, each of the young women bearing banners depicting as many planks of the platform on which Cohen is running for mayor. This made one of the big hits of the performance.

DEMOCRATS ARE BUSY IN FIGHT

The Democratic legislative and municipal campaign on Oahu is now getting into full swing. Meetings to-night will be held at Emma Square and Kauluwela school.

Reports from the Democratic camp tell of several good crowds. A number of candidates have recently been into outside sections and around the island.

GOVERNOR'S ANNUAL REPORT TO BE SENT ON IN NEXT FEW DAYS

Governor Pinkham's annual report to the secretary of the interior will be finished within the next day or two and sent forward on the steamer Sierra next Saturday, the same date on which Governor Frear's report was dispatched to Washington last year.

While Governor Pinkham has declined to disclose the details of his report until it comes from the government printshop at the national capital, in the form of general distribution, it has become known generally that the document contains one or two departures from former statements which will prove big features of the forthcoming report.

The report now going East will contain 150 typewritten pages, exclusive of photographs and maps. This is in contrast with the last annual report, which covered some 79 typewritten pages, exclusive of maps and photographs and which, in printed form, contains 95 pages besides cuts and insertions.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DOES NOT FAVOR ANY ELECTION DAY HOLIDAY

A petition disapproving of September 12—election day—being declared a territorial holiday, this morning was put into circulation among the local retail merchants in accordance with the action taken by the board of retail trades of the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting yesterday afternoon. The board adopted a resolution to the effect that it is not in favor of the occasion being made a holiday for the reason that September 7 is Labor day

MARY PICKFORD IS HERE AGAIN IN FINE PLAY

Little Mary Pickford is with us again, having made her initial appearance of her second engagement before the matinee audience at the Popular theater this afternoon.

"Caprice" is the vehicle used by "America's little sweetheart" upon her second appearance in Honolulu and "Caprice" promises to allow the diminutive star an excellent opportunity of demonstrating the manner in which she earns $25,000 a year, the highest salary paid to any star of the silent drama.

In keeping with the run of "Blair's Greater Photo Plays," "Caprice" is among the highest class offerings coming from the studio of the Famous Players, telling a story that is full of interest, introducing the audience to the most tense situations and providing thrills galore. At the same time "Caprice" gives Miss Pickford ample opportunity for finished acting and Miss Pickford does not fail to take advantage of the opportunity.

The Popular has been considerably improved during the past week until its management claims for it that it is the coolest theater in Honolulu. New high-power fans have been installed, vents have been made in the roof and exits arranged so that they contribute materially to the supply of fresh air. The aisles and stair ways have been carpeted and the walls have been retinted, light of jets that are far superior to anything in the city have been installed and will be added to in the near future.

Mr. Blair announces that some of the best offerings of the studios he represents will reach this city in the near future.

Considerable interest already is being shown in "Ten Nights in a Barroom," an expose of the wine-dive that was kept out of California through the activity of the liquor interests.

and September 19 Regatta day. The sentiment was that three holidays so close together would not be appreciated from a business standpoint. John Effinger and W. N. Patten are handling the circulation of the petition which, when completed, will be submitted to the governor.

'THROUGH FIRE TO FORTUNE' AT YE LIBERTY

"Through Fire to Fortune" is not only thrilling but is educational. It tells its story of truth and revelation more graphically than can the cold pages of a book. The educational feature lies in the portrayal of scenes which surround a strike of coal miners; scenes which can only be conjured in fancy from newspaper descriptions.

In addition to these big strike scenes, there is an undervein of love and intrigue that provides a powerful plot and keeps nerves tingling.

Desiring to become an American citizen Miss Jenny Zimmerman, a native of Denmark and a trained nurse by profession, has filed a petition for naturalization in the clerk's office in the federal court. Miss Zimmermann is the first woman to file a petition for naturalization in many months.

OPPORTUNITY to we of Hawaii means bringing more Tourists here to spend more money here

Seven thousand five hundred and thirty-two tourists came here in 1913 and spent Three Million Dollars. That was good business—as it cost only $2000 per month (advertising, etc.) to get that number to come here.

But are we going to be satisfied with only 7,532 tourists a year?—when we know we can take care of more?—when we know more will come if we only tell 'em about Hawaii?—when it will only cost a little to tell 'em?—and when the European war makes it cheaper to tell them, because they are all primed to listen?

We need to spend $4000 a month instead of $2000. This investment will pay bigger than sugar dividends
